

Neville

You can sort of tell from this photo that Neville is a big guy. Seventeen pounds of big, to be exact. And a good portion of that weight, no doubt, is his big cuddly heart! Neville came to Shadow Cats as part of the "Great Kitty Rescue" through the Best Friends organization. When you see him today, it's almost impossible to imagine him living - just barely - in the Nevada desert in an out of control cat hoarding situation. Luckily for Neville, he can forget those days and just enjoy his new life at the sanctuary.

Neville's rescue was especially timely. As a feline leukemia cat, he wouldn't have lasted long in the desert. But at the sanctuary, with the very best of daily attention and the finest in medical care from Dr. Roy, Neville's prospects are much better. You can often spot him on the KittyCam, and he's gradually becoming more receptive to attention from people, especially once he gets to know you. But if you're a stranger to him, you'll usually just see him heading out the kitty door to the outside enclosure when you first come into the room. With some cats you won't even see that - but with Neville, you'll at least see his back end slowly squeezing out the kitty door.....because it just barely fits ;o)
